IGNITING YOUR ARTISTIC JOURNEY

connecting diversity, sustainability, and flexible artistic training

OUR STORY

“Since opening our doors, we’ve been committed to helping young people pursue their passion for Performing Arts. With our passionate teachers, exceptional staff and a talented student community, we’re confident in the education, guidance and network you will find here.

Stageworx School Of Performing Arts provides a unique and highly personalised method of learning, creating an environment to nurture, educate and encourage creative individuals to achieve the highest level of success.

Stageworx is not just a place for those wishing to follow a creative career. The arts can be used in many facets, a way to discover yourself and find your direction, a place to make long-life friends with like-minded individuals, a place to work through obstacles and personal trauma and most important of all, a way to escape the turmoil of the world around us through our creative passions.

I found my passion through performance and set up Stageworx so that others could do the same. Through-out my learnings as a professional performer and now my MBA in Educational Leadership, I understand what is required for those wishing to have the creative sector as a career option. It requires determination, self-motivation, diversification of skills, good communication and the necessary skills in business to work as a freelance artist.

No longer does an artist have to “die on their sword” to be an artist and creativity should be accessible to everyone and a fundamental part of the make-up of the education system.

At Stageworx we hope to guide you through your creative options, be your happy place and assist you in working towards the best YOU possible.”
